Fat Rabbit Farm proudly announces their first publication of Fat Rabbit Farm: Babee and the Valley of the Hungry Ninjas, written by Nicholas Doan and illustrated by Patty Variboa.

the creators

Jason Ponggasam and Patty Variboa are self-taught designers and illustrators, inspired by anything with mischief, sweets, and bunnies. Everyday, they enjoy making bunny faces at each other because it always makes them giggle. They secretly work with an underground bunny rescue team from time to time. During their free time, they love to bake cookies and sushi cupcakes. The couple also hops around as freelance designers.

the writer

Nicholas Doan is a playwright, screenwriter and comic book author. Nick has written comics for Affinity Press and DC Comics' online imprint, Zuda. His screenwriting includes work for the sketch comedy troupe, Pool Party Massacre and the animated internet series, Elm Way. He has written several short plays produced at the Chautauqua theatre festival held in Santa Cruz, CA and one short play for the first annual Hollywood Fringe Festival.

In this magical kingdom, Fat Rabbit Farm is inhabited by spontaneous and adventurous friends, including a fluffy bunny who loves ice cream, a lone pirate bunny who sailed from beyond the skies, a quiet little turtle, and a bad tempered mushroom. The farm is full of surprises, where a few places are known, and most are still yet to be discovered.

In their first shared adventure, Babee and Blanket discover a hidden treasure map leading to the Legendary Golden Cupcake, which is known to be heavily guarded by a group of fierce and dreadful guardians called the Hungry Ninjas!

Will Babee and her friends overcome the challenges ahead of them?
Will Babee get her paws on this Golden Cupcake?

Fat Rabbit Farm combines the spirit of anime and the heart of comics, appealing to kids and adults of all ages. Their adorable sense of humor and attractively colorful illustrations will create fur-raising laughs and inspire readers' imaginations. What story will be revealed next? Stay tuned for more Fat Rabbit Farm adventures!
